pH Institutes New Cast Structure

CHICAGO, January 9 – pH Productions, a Chicago-based improv and comedy theater company, has established a new structure for its cast of talented actors.

The pH cast will be broken into two groups: Company and Repertory. Both groups are official members of pH Productions with the major difference being amount of time given to the organization which is comparable to the amount of play time each individual will get.

- Company

Company members are members of pH Productions that are considered the most-seasoned and experts at all three Mainstage productions (pHrenzy, pHamily and pHreedom pHalls). Company members will be held to a higher standard and will be expected to maintain the highest level of performance quality. They are the lifeblood of pH, performing in the weekly late night schedule.

- Repertory

Repertory members are cast members who will play less frequently for a variety of reasons. However, they make up two distinct groups within pH Productions.

- Featured Repertory Players

Featured Repertory players may once have been Company members but for various reasons they have to limit their time with pH, or are seasoned improvisers who have shown an interest in participating in pH but due to time constraints can only give a small amount of time.

- Repertory Players

Repertory players are assets to pH Productions who are not yet ready to take on the full body of pH work. Repertory players will not have as many performance slots and will be working toward earning their spot in performances, with the end goal of becoming a Company member.
